All Christendom, with manifold tongues, celebrates again, according to its varied climes and customs, the birth of the Christ.

From Bethlehem, where Jesus was born, the celebration of the nativity spread through the world.

For hundreds of millions of persons it was a day for the exchange of gifts—with children the most favored recipients. For as many other Christians, the day of the giving of gifts will come January 4—the day of the three kings—when the magi gave their presents of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Christ child.

The day dedicated to peace, started with a sharp denunciation of war and a suggestion that there might be a pause in the world's only full-fledged war, the hostilities in the Chaco between Bolivia and Paraguay.

VATICAN CITY—Prayers for peace were taken by Pope Pius, who said "the clamor of war spreads ever farther." His holiness performed the duties of a parish priest in celebrating the mass of the nativity.

Buenos Aires—Although no formal truce was declared, it was indicated that both Paraguay and Bolivia would suspend hostilities on Christmas Day.

BETHLEHEM—Thousands of devout worshipped at the site of the manger where Christ was born.

WASHINGTON—Thousands of "Merry Christmas" greetings were carried into the White House past its four decorated Christmas trees as President Roosevelt and his family prepared an old-fashioned Christmas celebration.

Australia-to-London Air Mail Is Launched

LONDON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The first regular air mail service from Australia reached Croydon airport today three minutes after the 12-day schedule for the 12,000-mile flight.

The two Imperial Airways planes carrying the mails brought a load of 12-4 tons, of which half a ton was from Australia and included a special sack containing Christmas greetings and presents from the duke of Gloucester, third son of the king, to members of the royal family.

Hauptmann's Trial May Be Delayed

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Judge Adam O. Robbins, who with Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard will preside at the trial of Lindbergh kidnapping suspect, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, said today the trial might be delayed from one month to 40 days if a new jury panel is drawn because of the pamphlet sent anonymously to all the prospective jurors on the panel January 2.

The pamphlet in question, described by the state as a "malicious and deliberate effort" to "tamper" with the jury, was entitled "No. 2310. Crimino File Exposed." Aviator's Baby Was Never Kidnapped or Murdered."

Mother Rescuing Boy Dies in Hotel Blaze

CARLSBAD, N. M., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Mute evidence of a mother's frantic dash to save her baby boy from fire was found today in the ruins of a small hotel in which four persons lost their lives yesterday.

The bodies of Mrs. John Owen Portales, N. M., and her one-year-old son, found two feet apart in a door where the terrified mother apparently was overcome by smoke.

The other victims of the fire, which destroyed the two-story frame building in a short time were Felix Miller, 68, a rancher of near Carlsbad, and J. B. Morrison, Woodson, Texas.

BUSINESS, PROFITS SHOW BIG GAINS, ROPER REVEALS

Secretary's Annual Report Given to President. Discouraging Spots Still Exist, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Secretary Roper told President Roosevelt in the commerce department's annual report published today that business enjoyed a definite improvement in the fiscal year ended last June but that there still were some discouraging spots on the economic map.

Citing the increases in both domestic and foreign trade, the return to work of many unemployed and a general revival of confidence, the secretary said:

"While evidence of the progress which has been made are concrete and numerous, the fiscal year closed with the capital goods industry still greatly depressed, private construction very low, unemployment large and severe drains on the national budget.

Bank Loans at Low Level.

"Further, the volume of bank loans outstanding, despite the plethora of bank credit available, remained at a very low level. Notwithstanding the fact that the various aspects of our national life, the year as a whole brought definite recovery from the low point of the depression."

The report added that although production and distribution costs advanced during the year, the cost per unit was still "improvement" in profits. A representative group of 500 companies reported profits approximating $1,400,000,000, representing an increase of about 76 per cent over the total for the preceding fiscal year.

Another section of the report released today covered the work of the bureaus of air commerce, census, foreign and domestic commerce, standards, fisheries, navigation and steamboat inspection, shipping board and the patent office, coast and geodetic survey and lightship-bearers.

Werner Jeffries Dies of Injuries

Among the New Deal liberal group there has been whispers that both Secretaries Wallace and Ickes, former republican independents from the middle west, might be put forward by the president, the latter's definition of the "New Deal."

From Indiana come reports that Governor Paul W. McNutt would like to team up with Roosevelt.

That a mid-westerner will be chosen, if Garner does not run, appears certain.

The discussion in the capital about a new running mate for Mr. Roosevelt has resulted in part from Vice President Garner's silence on whether he will seek nomination.

Garnier Non-Committal.

While Garner is non-committal, some of his close friends who decline to be quoted by name claim he has the right to name his running mate. They say Garner is willing to run again, if the president wants him, but that if his "boss" feels that it is better for the party ticket that he pick someone else, he is willing to retire.

The selection will be made at the democratic convention in June, 1936.

That point to the co-operation in the Texan has given the president handling legislation in the last Congress and the loyalty he has shown Mr. Roosevelt.

That Mr. Roosevelt has called upon his vice president for advice on many important matters is known by the press.

In a jocular mood, the president recently gave Mr. Garner the nickname of "Mr. Commonsense" at a cabinet meeting.

Courage and Unity for Greater Happiness Stressed by President in Christmas Message

ASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—In a Christmas message to the nation, President Roosevelt today proposed that "courage and unity" be made the spirit of the occasion.

"It is the way to greater happiness and well-being," he said. "This year again we are entitled to new hopes and new anticipations."

Beside the monument of Andrew Jackson across from the White House grounds, Mr. Roosevelt lighted the nation's Christmas tree and spoke his Christmas Eve message over the radio.

"This is the second year," he said, "that I have joined with you on this happy occasion. Then, as now, with millions of others we celebrate the happy observance of Christmas.

"The year toward which we looked then with anticipation and hope has passed. We have seen fulfilled many things that a year ago were only hopes. Our human life thus goes on from anticipation and hope to fulfillment. This year again we are entitled to new hopes and new anticipations."

"For all those who can hear but not see this gathering, let me explain that here before us in the park in front of the White House is the monument of a man who will live forever as the embodiment of courage—Andrew Jackson.

"He was a long, long life in the public service, distinguished at all times by a chivalrous meeting of problems and difficulties that attended that service; a fast belief in people and a profound love for them.

"His patriotism was unstained and unafraid. Carved into that monument is his expression of the necessity for union. That message grows in importance with the years.

"In these days it means to me a union not only of the state but a union of the hearts and minds of the people in all the states and their many interests and purposes, devoted with unity to the human welfare of our country.

"Just across the street is the house he occupied 100 years ago, the house the people of the country have built for their presidents. From its windows I see this monument to this man of courage. It is an inspiration to me as it should be to all Americans.

"And so let us make the spirit of the Christmas of 1934 that of courage and unity. It is the way to greater happiness and well-being. That is, I believe, an important part of what the Maker of Christmas would have it mean.

"In this sense, the Scriptures admonish us to be strong and of good courage, to fear not; to dwell together in unity.

"I wish you one and all, here and everywhere, a very, very merry Christmas."

Doomed French Girl, 19, Saved From Guillotine

PARIS, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The head of Violette Noziere, wayward French girl sentenced to the guillotine for poisoning her father, was spared today as a Christmas gift from President Albert Lebrun before he left.

The president granted the plea of the mother, who previously had bitterly arraigned her daughter and then sought clemency "for the sake of her father" who as a railroad engineer had once driven the presidential train.

The guillotine sentence passed upon the 19-year-old girl was changed to life imprisonment.

A JOYOUS CHRISTMAS

The true significance of the surging spirit of joy and optimism pervading every section of the United States, and especially the south, this Christmas is to be found in a retrospective consideration of the uncertainty and distress that prevailed in preceding holiday seasons.

Two years ago today there was little to give comfort and cheer but an abiding faith in the future of a nation that has never failed to emerge from the depressions from which it has suffered. That Christmas, as The Constitution then pointed out, "dawned on a world distraught from the troubles of a trying readjustment of its mundane affairs," with the chief solace for the people of Georgia lying in the fact that they could—

Participate in the joys of this Christmas Day in the knowledge that they have suffered far less than those of other states where the weight of the depression has been heavier and in the confident belief that they will receive their full share of the prosperity and happiness which is certain to return to all the world when the passing shadow of the current unrest have disappeared.

By the time another year had rolled around the tide had turned and The Constitution was able to voice the assurance that "the nation, and Georgia and the south especially, come to this Christmas with every cause for gratitude that the distress and suspense of the past few years are disappearing before the bright promise of better days that are now definitely on the way."

The faith of America has been justified and those better days are here. Seldom has there been experienced such an outpouring of dollars and joyousness of spirit as has marked the pre-Christmas season.

Not all of those upon whom the depression caused to suffer the most are again independent and self-supporting, but the deeper spirit of brotherly love engendered during the soul-trying days of the depression has caused the specter of want and the dark clouds of despair and unhappiness to be driven from every home, however humble or needy, in the land.

Where two years ago uncertainty and fear stalked, confidence and happiness now reigns. With spirits rehabilitated, the people of America once more realize that no temporary setbacks can permanently hinder the advance of their great country.

Not often has America had so real cause to enter into the observance of Christmas in keeping with the spirit of Him who was born this day, 1,934 years ago. The fires of distress and denial have burnt away the dross of human selfishness and thoughtlessness to a degree the world has seldom known before.

The shrewd moves of Great Britain and other European nations can be checked by the American government and American business, but we must adopt a broad-minded and a conciliatory policy if we are to avert the threatened danger of loss of the dominance in the far east, gained as the result of long years of friendly and understanding relations.

The common objective of the average American is the dollar.

The sauce in life appears to be apple sauce.

This will go down as the brass apple sauce.

age. People have brass enough to ask Uncle Sam for anything.

Civilized achievement is inventing new barbarous methods of warfare.

WE FALTER IN THE FAR EAST

Out of the collapse of the London naval conference, and the resultant denunciation of the Washington treaty by the Japanese privy council, comes clear indication that astute British diplomacy has again succeeded in playing the cards of international relations to the benefit of British business.

The net result of the three months of fruitless negotiations seems to be that the British emerge from the conference not only with the friendship of Japan but that, as the result of skillful maneuvering, they have been able to place upon the United States the onus for the inability of the conferees to get together. While apparently co-operating with the United States in the insistence that the 5-5-3 ratio be continued, the British diplomats have at the same time been able to convince the Japanese that the attitude of the United States brought about the failure of the conference.

As a result, Japanese newspapers have been a unit in charging the impasse reached at London to American "stubbornness," while at the same time praising Great Britain's "reasonableness."

The ability of British diplomacy to turn even failure to the benefit of the nation is traditional and has played an important part in maintaining British dominance in the markets of the world and thus furthering the economic welfare of the country.

British business interests have not been slow to follow up the advantage gained by their diplomats during the London negotiations. Already a commission named by the Federation of British Industries has visited Japan and Manchukuo and submitted a report, in which a strong appeal is made for a "new deal" in trade to enlarge the markets for British goods in Japan and Manchukuo. An immediate practical move was made to this end by the designation of a permanent committee of outstanding British industrialists to discuss trade problems with a similar committee, already named, representing the Japanese Economic Federation.

France and Italy have not failed to realize the significance of the British moves and have also taken steps to strengthen their trade relations in the far east. France has assumed a position of sympathy with the Japanese demand for a 5-5-3 ratio and semi-official French financial concerns are making large loans to both Japan and Manchukuo business interests.

In the meantime, the United States, overlooking the economic importance of the situation, is left with the bag to hold, despite the fact that our trade relations, up to a few months ago, have been such that American exports to Manchukuo have increased and European exports have decreased.

The seriousness of the situation is illustrated in the sharp decline in the purchase by Japan and Manchukuo of American-made airplanes and airplane equipment and materials. Notwithstanding the recognized superiority of American planes, and the fact that they have dominated the far eastern market, the prospect is that they will fall to second position this year and possibly in 1935.

Indicating the new closeness of British-Japanese relations, an announcement is made that the Japanese delegation at London has received instructions from Tokyo to discuss informally with British representatives suggestions of a new conference to be held along lines advanced by Great Britain.

Thus a situation is created that eliminates the United States as Japan's most friendly nation, when just the opposite should have been true. For two-thirds of a century, since Admiral Perry opened the gates of Japan, the two nations have been traditional friends. At every crisis in the remarkable period of development from a backward far eastern nation to one of the chief powers of the world, Japan has turned to the United States for counsel and aid. Few people have looked upon another nation with as much sincere admiration and affection as have the Japanese upon America.

The astute shuffling of the cards by British diplomacy now threatens the loss of this friendship, with Great Britain stepping in to take our place at the time when we can profit most from the aid we have tendered in the past.

The shrewd moves of Great Britain and other European nations can be checked by the American government and American business, but we must adopt a broad-minded and a conciliatory policy if we are to avert the threatened danger of loss of the dominance in the far east, gained as the result of long years of friendly and understanding relations.

No man is ever as busy as he would like for his boss to believe.

The common objective of the average American is the dollar.

This will go down as the brass apple sauce.

THE LOST CHAPTER

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

1. Now Joel, the son of Judah, the shepherd of Bethlehem, had been sent to his father's house to bring bread and meat for the others as he had divided in the fields, sheep, which over their flock. And behold he tarried by the wayside for he was young and a dreamer. And as evening was come his companions were sorely distressed for his sake, saying the one to the other: If no wild beast hath devoured him. And they began to revere him as one man his companion.

2. And as he was yet walking, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and thereafter a multitude of the heavenly host, saying: Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace! But Menasseh, the priest's son, called out, saying: Where is our brother Joel? That Joel be here and see the glory of God even with us. And a runner was sent to the house of Jacob. And the runner came upon Joel by the wayside.

3. And the runner said unto Joel: Behold the heavens have opened and the hosts of the Eternal are descending and the glory of God is upon Ephrata's fields. But Joel answered the runner and said: Go ye to my brethren and say unto them I have found a child which hath come to grievous hurt. Turn back the hands of all men. I will come when I have washed his wounds and poured oil on them. And the runner departed.

4. And Joel lifted the child that had fallen by the wayside and he washed his head and he poured oil on the wounds. But the child was like unto death. And a second runner came to him and said: Behold he is the first to be sent unto you: Joel! Behold he for whom all mankind has waited is born this night. And princes have come from the east, bringing myrrh and aloes and precious gifts of a splendor as was not seen in this land since Solomon's day. And the brethren bid them come hastily that thou mayest worship the living God together with them. And thy brethren say: Leave this child till a better hour and we shall all come and succor it.

5. And Joel answered the runner and said: Say unto my brethren, I shall come, but have yet a little patience, for this child is in need, it suffere exceedingly. And the second runner departed.

6. And when it came to pass that the shepherds left their flocks in the fields and they went to Bethlehem and they found Mary with her first-born in the stable and they worshipped and praised God. But Joel was not with them.

7. Then Menasseh, the son of the priest, sought Joel and found him by a curse, saying: Cursed be thou, Joel, son of Judah, that thou hast failed to worship Him who has come to redeem all Israel. Art thou even as those who believe not? And he cursed him with a great curse. And as he heard these words Joel became sad. And he loved his brethren and he had waited for his brothers for the Messiah. And Menasseh despatched.

8. And Joel took his cloak and wrapped the child therein for it was the third watch and it was winter. And he warmed the child with the warmth of his own body. And he waited for the dawn.

9. And, lo, the sun rose and a man appeared by the sea and said unto Joel: Blessed be thou, Joel, son of Judah, and great shall be thy reward in the kingdom of heaven, for thou hast cured this child which was wounded and thou hast poured oil on his wounds and thou hast warmed him with thine own cloak and with the warmth of thine own body. And thou hast given me my will. And he said unto you, those who say Lord, Lord, but those who do the will of the Father shall enter into the kingdom of heaven. And what thou hast done unto this little one, behold he has done unto me.

10. And Joel answered and said: Rabboni, who art thou? And as he lifted up his eyes, beheld the man had vanished. And Joel was left alone with the child.

11. And as he yet marvelled, lo, the morning wind rustled softly in the eucalyptus tree and Joel arose and covered his face for it is written: And God was in the stillness of the wind.

12. And Joel lifted the child in his arms and as he came near unto Bethlehem he met the child's mother and his father and he gave them the child.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

PEACE WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The Christmas Eve bells did not seem to have the same ring in Washington this year. Diplomatic interference is in the air. The message of peace on earth is rasped by international static. The good-will-to-men part of it has been lost in the din of news about navies, naval bases, eliminating war profits, storing tin, and, most important, the terrific detonation of the London naval conversations.

You can get a hint of how serious all this static is from the fact that the most responsible authority here has twice cautioned newsmen within the last three weeks to avoid belligerent talk. He has also mourned the intemperate language of certain congressmen.

That does not mean war is near. It simply means that the powder barrels of the world are being filled and the time has come for everyone to stop throwing verbal matches around.

INSTRUCTIONS

The best slant on the situation is what happened at London. The statesmen tried to ring down an asbestos curtain at the end of the conference. It was so full of holes that anyone could see through it.

The final communiqué required 340 words to assert that the conference had "served a useful purpose." Anyone who has covered international conferences knows this is the inadequate phrase always used at Geneva and elsewhere to cover up a complete failure.

The one accomplishment of the conference was not mentioned in the communiqué. Only the diplomats know about it. It was the diplomatic victory achieved by our delegate, Norman Davis.

Both Japan and Britain tried to get us to agree to set a date for resumption of conversations, preferably next spring. Davis cabled the state department here for instructions. He was told on no account to commit this country to any further conversations, if Japan insisted on renouncing the naval treaty.

JOCKEYING

Mr. Davis had a hard time to avoid setting a date. A few hours before the communiqué was issued, the Japanese diplomat, Matsudaira, called on Davis and said he had been instructed by Tokyo to insist upon a date. Of course, the Japanese did not want the responsibility for killing the conference. Their diplomatic game was to ease out of it on tip-toe. Davis declined to sign a date.

They compromised on the innocuous "hope" that "the situation will so develop as to justify a subsequent meeting as soon as the opportune moment arrives." Everybody hopes that. But everybody knows the opportune moment will come when Japan shows more consideration for the treaty.

The secret of these tactics was to let the Japanese know that the United States is, in effect, withdrawing from conversations in protest against the Japanese position. We let them know weeks ago that if they denounced the Washington naval treaty we would walk out of the conference. We did, in the best diplomatic style.

In order to prevent any appearance of a breakdown, the British are continuing to listen to the Japanese.

EFFECT

This may seem, offhand, to be a rather hard-boiled attitude on our part, but it is probably essential. The Washington naval treaty cost us 34 vessels. If the Japanese insist on scrapping it, we can maintain the five-to-three ratio, without the treaty, by simply building ships. To accede to the Japanese position now would be to handcuff ourselves.

HITLER

Herr Hitler privately sent word to one of our eminent diplomats in Europe recently that he would agree to the American plan for control of international armaments if we let him have other big powers to do so. The "if" should be in capital letters. Mussolini has said about the same thing to us privately. There is a difference about what they say in private and do in public. You need not expect an agreement.

EUROPE

The New Deal diplomats received a confidential report from one of their best European observers a few days ago stating that, while disarmament is dead, the political outlook (Franco-German, Franco-Italian) is more promising than it has been.

The Best of Ships Can't Get Anywhere If It Doesn't Take On Fuel

By Robert Quillen

There are few mysteries stranger than the mating of mortals. A boy sees a girl with shining teeth, a permanent wave and nice ankles, and the sight of her does something to his brain. She is the most important thing in the world.

The girl observes that the boy is tall and strong or that he has blue eyes or that he is a swell dancer, and a similar something happens to her brain.

"I love you," says the boy. And the girl answers, "I love you."

And that, incredible as it seems, is all they wish to know. With that information, and no more, they are ready to undertake a life-long partnership.

No wonder there are shipwrecks. Times have changed since the war, and there are youngsters who marry to get a thrill or a kick or something of the kind, but the sadder ones still regard marriage as the beginning of a career.

As partners they will plan and work together, slowly but surely getting ahead, and in time they will have something and be important people in their community.

But youngsters who have ambition and hope to make their marriage an economic and social success should have a more complete understanding than the mere assurance of one another's love. Affection doesn't pay the rent.

As the dullest of people have known since time immemorial, it isn't the money one makes that counts, but the money saved and wisely used. And one partner in a business can't keep down the overhead if the other isn't troubled by expenses.

It may be well for the boy and girl to ask, "Do you love me?" But greater wisdom would prompt them to say: "Let's make sure that we agree in the matter of spending money."

Many marriages fail because one partner is a saver and the other a scatter-wit spender.

It isn't always the woman whose wife extravagance invites ruin. Many a thrifty and practical wife is made miserable all her days by the silly spending of a husband who defeats all her plans to "have something."

And many a man who might have grown rich with another partner kept poor all his days by a wife who thinks he is Santa Claus.

Money isn't everything, but it is sane and wholesome to build and grow and "be somebody." And blessed are those natural builders who find mates with the brains and ambition to lend a hand.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

OVERWEIGHT AND CANCER.

In a recent article published in the Texas State Medical Association and published in the state medical journal last July, Dr. Dudley Jackson and Dr. A. E. Todd, of San Antonio, pointed out two facts which should interest not only those who have cancer but also those who are training for it.

GEORGE W. HUNT DEAD IN ARIZONA

"The Old Roman," Seven Times Governor, Succumbs to Heart Disease.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 24.—(AP)—George W. P. Hunt, 75, seven times governor of Arizona, died at his home here today.

Death came to "the old Roman" of Arizona, as he was known, as he died with his daughter, Mrs. Virginia Branham, plans for a Christmas dinner.

Attending physicians said heart disease was the cause of death, but uremia and diabetes, from which he had long suffered, were contributory causes.

He had been confined to his bed about two weeks, stricken with a cold and bronchitis.

DR. THOMAS C. GRAVES.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas C. Graves, 64, Shelby county jail physician since 1926, and prior to that time superintendent of the county health department for 15 years, died at his home here today after a prolonged illness.

L. M. PASSMORE.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Luther Martin Passmore, 63, meat inspector for the city of Memphis for seven years, died of a heart ailment early today.

A native of Humboldt, Tenn., he was baggage agent there for the L. & N. railroad for a number of years. Later, he served in the same capacity at Jackson, Tenn.

T. C. CAZEAU.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Theodore C. Cazeau, 59, former national commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, died here Sunday. He contracted a blood stream infection a few days ago. A special serum was rushed here from Johns Hopkins hospital, in Baltimore, in a futile effort to save his life.

MRS. JOHN A. HAARDT.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 24.—

Only "Christmas" in U.S. Has Annual Postal Boom

CHRISTMAS, Fla., Dec. 24.—(AP)—The pretty little postmistress looked up from her desk where she has been kept busy almost continuously these past days, wiped a bead of sweat from her forehead and remarked:

"Santa Claus is not the only one who has quite a job at Christmas."

In the entire United States there is only one place where it is "Christmas" every day in the year, and that is right here.

Ordinarily it is more or less an easy job for Mrs. Juanita Tucker, who handles the mail for O. Lord, Sam, except between, say, Thanksgiving and Christmas Day.

The event, the postmaster, Mr. Frazier, would put it.

Just about everyone who ever heard there is such a place has sent mail this year to be dispatched with the "Christmas, Fla." December 25, 1934" postmark.

(AP)—Mrs. John Anton Haardt, 56, the mother of Mrs. H. L. Mencken, of Baltimore, died at a Montgomery home today after suffering a stroke of apoplexy a week ago.

E. A. CAHOON

ROSWELL, N. M., Dec. 24.—(AP)—E. A. Cahoon, 57, founder of the First National Bank of Roswell, in 1886, with money brought from the east in a buckboard wagon, died Sunday night after a long illness.

DR. H. G. BAYER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Henry G. Bayer, 67, associate professor of French at New York University and an American authority on the Belgian Congo, died today. His widow, a son and a daughter, survive.

CHARLES H. MILLER.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Charles H. Miller, 67, hardware company executive and vice president of General Hardware Corporation, of New York, died today.

HARRIS GRANSTEIN.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Harris Granstein, 64, one of the leading Jewish residents of the city, died today in a hospital at New Haven, Conn., where he had been undergoing treatment.

were pleased by the coming of Christ-mas; they chuckled gleefully at the colored electric lights on their Christ-mas tree.

JUKKASJARVI, Sweden.—Reindeer served other purposes than pulling Santa Claus' sleigh in this community; the local residents enjoyed a feast of grated reindeer liver and reindeer bone marrow.

TOKYO—Japanese toy manufacturers were highly pleased by the contributions their agents to the United States increased in the same ratio that Germany's toy exports declined.

LONDON—King George played the traditional role of English children's "Father Christmas" by personally distributing presents yesterday.

PARIS.—French government held special Christmas parties, giving entertainment and toys to all the children of France's 400,000 unemployed citizens.

POPE PLEADS FOR PEACE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, with "the confused but largely diffused voice of war" ringing in his ears, pleaded for peace today in his Christmas message to the world.

He spoke with voice which trembled with emotion to the cardinals of the Curia who came to wish him long life and happiness.

The 75-year-old pontiff quoted the ancient chant of the nativity, "peace on earth to men of good will," and said that never before as today was it so necessary for mankind to choose this as its "unceasing prayer."

For those, however, who want war, the pope said he had formulated another prayer—"Destroy, O Lord, the people who wish for war."

His Holiness, who had thundered from the throne chair against "the new phenomenon of the suicidal and homicidal mania of those who prefer war to peace." His voice shook with earnestness as he finished his talk exclaiming:

"Peace! Peace! Peace!"

The pontiff expressed regret for the world economic crisis but rejoiced with the cardinals over the success of the holy year and the Eucharistic congress at Buenos Aires.

"We still have visibly," he said, "the memory of the Eucharistic congress at Buenos Aires, the true fruits of the visit (the blessed vision of peace) which for some days was almost a reflection of heaven on this miserable earth...."

TROOPS IN CHACO RECEIVE PRESENTS

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Thousands of Christmas gifts of tobacco and candy, gathered by the Red Cross and patriotic societies of Paraguay and Bolivia, moved into the battle front of the Chaco Boreal today by trucks and airplanes.

There were indications from both sides that there would be little if any fighting on Christmas Day although no formal truce had been signed.

This pause, it was believed, would be merely the prelude to a Paraguayan force is moving forward in wedge-shaped formation in an effort to cut off the Bolivian communications stronghold of Villa Montes and the battle probably would be joined within the next few days.

The Paraguayans claim, and the Bolivians deny, that a western advance of the Paraguayans army has smashed Bolivia's third army.

WORSHIERS CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS IN BETHLEHEM

BETHLEHEM, Dec. 25.—(Tues-day)—Jubilant bells of Bethlehem and "hallelujahs" of thousands of worshippers heralded the advent of another Christmas Day early this morning in the traditional celebration of Christ's birth at the famous Church of the Nativity.

Built on the most sacred spot in Christendom, where the Christ Child is believed to have breathed His first more than 19 centuries ago, the church was the scene of an imposing pageant around the midnight hour.

It was the climax of a day and a night of carols, rites in both Bethlehem and Jerusalem eight miles away, in which American travelers and residents of Palestine had their part. The numbers of overseas pilgrims, however, were considerably less than in former years.

Rainy weather disappointed the hundreds of tourists who commonly associate the holy city at Yuletide with clear, crisp weather, recalling the conditions traditionally linked with the miracle that Christendom celebrates today.

Sharp at midnight (5 p. m. Dec. 24, eastern standard time) an electric star of Bethlehem burst into light above the altar in the Church of the Convent and the drawing of a curtain in the Church of the Nativity revealed a superb effig of the Holy Babe.

FIVE TINY STOCKINGS HANGED FOR QUINTUPLETES

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Five of the tiniest stockings imaginable hang tonight in a row over a fireplace.

And five tiny girls, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie, slumber in five little cribs.

The nurse of the famed Dionne quintuplets was on alert feet about the four-foot Christmas tree, festooned with tinsel and twinkling of glistening artificial snow.

Gifts came from far away. In groups of five, rag dolls, little beds, soft flimsy clothes, and a hundred kinds of toys, came to the sisters.

Slumbering there didn't know what it was all about, but hush-hush there was consternation. Someone had stolen Santa's sleigh bells.

New Year's gifts in toys here show a distinctly military trend, with model warships, tanks, airplanes, guns and uniforms predominating in popularity.

Feast of Turkey and Fixin's To Be Served at Grady Today

A real turkey feast today will be given Grady hospital patients and is expected to make Christmas Day far happier for those who are ill and injured at the municipal institution. The tray of tasty food shown above has been prepared by the hospital dietitian, Miss Matra Ridgway, shown at the right, and is about to be carried to a patient by the graduate nurse at the left. Staff photo.

A delicious Christmas dinner will be served to all the patients of Grady hospital today. Miss Matra Ridgway, head dietitian, has arranged for a meal that includes everything from soup to nuts, the hospital has saved $27,000 a year, she said.

The menu will include a mixed fruit cocktail, turkey stuffed with oyster dressing, and covered with giblet gravy, peas, celery hearts a special Christmas salad, ambrosia, milk and biscuits.

Every patient in the hospital will get a second helping of this tempting meal except those who are suffering from certain ailments and even those will get a special turkey meal.

The Grady hospital diet kitchen is the largest centralized unit of its kind in the country, according to Miss Ridgway, who said it cost $20,000 to 1,600 trays a day. Also all the glasses of nourishment come from the kitchen for the entire hospital, and they run as high as 1,800 glasses a day.

The system of a central diet kitchen was installed at Grady two years ago under the direction of Miss Ridgway, who had had previous training in the preparation of meals.

Santa appeared finally without the jingling bells and the children scarcely noticed that the absence Santa was worried, just the same.

"I've got to get those bells back," he told police. "I just borrowed them for this occasion."

PIG DINNER.

ST. LOUIS.—Unless some truckers call for his 100-pound pig, it is a safe bet that some needy families may have a pig Christmas dinner.

The pig, running loose in the west end of the city, was captured by three police officers after a quarter-hour chase. If the owner does not claim it, police said that they will give it to a relief organization for distribution.

MEANEST CHRISTMAS THIEF.

DENVER—Marvin Smith would nominate the "meanest Christmas thief" the person who broke into his car and stole the Santa Claus suit he bought for $25 to wear at a holiday party.

ANOTHER ONE.

BALTIMORE—Somebody beat both Santa Claus and Meyer Mason to $35.00 worth of toys.

Mason stored the toys at his home to await distribution under the tree Christmas morning. When he went to look for them, they were gone. Police are looking for somebody and the toys.

AND STILL ANOTHER.

WAYNESBURG, Pa.—Leahle Ankrom raises Christmas trees to swell his income, but there's a deficit this Yule season. Someone entered Ankrom's tree nursery and made off with a dozen of his very best trees.

Christmas is on a big scale and found everything from 10-cent gifts to canons in her stocking—although it's really a shoe in France.

For the first time in the entire nation forth Christmas effort to bring smiles to the faces of thousands of children of the unemployed. In every prefecture in France and in Paris itself Christmas cheer ruled on the rect. initiative of Premier Flandin.

In Paris alone 50,000 children received gifts through the government "Christmas tree" organization, and meager as they might appear to Park Avenue they brought a little compensation for a hard year of unemployment.

MORE MOONEY DATA GIVEN HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—California today gave the supreme court additional data to aid in deciding whether to review the application of Thomas J. Mooney for release from a life sentence for participation in the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing.

The proposed 3,200-mile intermediate highway from South Africa to Los Angeles as a Christmas present to MacDonald. The premier, who had planned to spend today on the gold coast instead of at home instead, presumably trying to decide what to do with the animal.

CHILDREN OF UNEMPLOYED, AIDED BY PARIS GOVERNMENT

PARIS, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The French government saw to it today that no child goes tearfully to bed without hope of a gift from "Father Christmas."

Toys were distributed to the children of the nation's 400,000 unemployed with Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, originator of the idea of national Christmas trees in France, presiding over the distributions in Paris.

Eighty women, led by Madame Flan, went to the Louvre and various parts of Paris collecting offerings from celebrities to be sent to homes with babies too young to take part in the activities at the trees.

All in all, France went in for was yet taken. There was a lack of $114 to make this sum complete.

And the contributions began coming in. In fives and ones and at the last minute of $300 total the needed $114 was complete.

There may be more. Perhaps other checks are in the mails now. If so, rest assured the money will be used to good end. Thirteen by no means counts all Atlanta families that need help. But in any event, the thirteen chosen in most desperate plight have been taken. That is sufficient cause for rejoicing.

Today in the churches the Christmas carols will ring out. Happy Christmas bells will peal and reverent congregations will play Santa Claus to children and grandchildren, sit at the head of the table for the Yule feast, and swap greetings with old cronies.

Others will hold open house to receive friends at gayly lighted, holly and amaxia-decked executive mansions.

Down in Florida Governor Dave Shultz has an important engagement around dark拜年. When he will do whiskers and play Kris Kringle to his three small children—Mitchell, Carolyn and Louise.

"Well have turkey and all the trimmings at the mansion for Christmas dinner," said Governor B. M. Miller, of Alabama. "I plan to stay in Montgomery and spend a quiet day with my sister, son, daughter and two grandchildren."

Governor O. K. Allen, of Louisiana, went to his home in Winnfield, and Governor Ehringhaus, of North Carolina, had no special program of entertainments at the mansion in Raleigh.

"I'm going to eat a heap, sleep a heap, hunt a little, and do lots of visiting," said Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, who will divide the holidays between the mansion in Atlanta and his McRae home.

Adair of state will be sidetracked for the moment. From Arkansas to Virginia the state's chief executives will play Santa Claus to children and grandchildren, sit at the head of the

"A PERFECT CHRISTMAS DAY"

By Henry W. Grady.

No man or woman now living will see again such a Christmas day as the one which closed yesterday, when the dying sun piled the western skies with gold and purple.

A winter day it was, shot to the core with sunshine. It was enchanting to walk abroad in its prodigal beauty, to breathe its elixir, to reach out the hands and plunge them open-fingered through its pulsing waves of warmth and freshness. It was June and November welded and fused into a perfect glory that held the sunshine and snow beneath tender and splendid skies. To have witnessed such a day from the teeming winter was to have found an odorous peach on a bough whipped in the storms of winter. One caught the musk of yellow grain, the flavor of ripening nuts, the fragrance of strawberries, the exquisite odor of violets, the aroma of all seasons in the wonderful day. The hum of bees underrode the whistling wings of wild geese flying southward. The fires slept in drowsing grates, while the people, marveling outdoors, watched the soft winds woo the roses and the lilies.

Truly it was a day of days. Amid its riotous luxury surely life was worth living to hold up the head and breathe it in as thirsting men drink water; to put every sense on its gracious excellence; to throw the hands wide apart and hug whole armfuls of the day close to the heart; till the heart itself is enrapured and illumined. God's benediction came down with the day, slow dropping from the skies. God's smile was its light, and all through the day, good sanctifying every soul, was His invocation and promise, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Y CHRISTMAS

- Your Constitution Carriers ...

and may we add, that it has been a pleasure to serve you!

WE DEEPLY appreciate the many letters of commendation on our work which you have written to the management of The Constitution. It's the many such letters as these that inspire us---

"I do not wish to pass up the opportunity of telling you what a fine fellow you have carrying the route on which I am located. He is one of the most courteous young men I have ever come in contact with. It is unusual to be met with such courtesy and consideration and I believe you are fortunate to have this type young man in your service. I feel sure he will be valuable to you."

"Hand this letter to city circulation manager. Its purpose is to commend the carrier in my section. The morning paper is always on time and ready to be brought to my room before six o'clock, so I digest the day's news before breakfast; but primarily and most important, on rainy mornings, like last Sunday, he is thoughtful enough to put it under cover so it reaches me in perfect condition. Qualities like this deserve promotion."

"The delivery that I have received at my home has been as fine as it was possible to obtain. The carrier takes the greatest pains to see that the paper is protected in bad weather, and he is always on time. I have been a regular subscriber to The Constitution at this address for nineteen years and the delivery service is always good, but the present can be classed only as excellent and I felt that I really owed it to the carrier to express to you, and through you to him, my appreciation for his fine work. I hope that you will see fit to commend him and let him know that his subscribers really appreciate his efforts to make his work outstanding."

Fair Weather Due in South As Snow Covers North, West

By the Associated Press.
Christmas came wrapped in white to the mountains and prairies of the north and west.

From frozen Canada, sub-zero blasts slipped their icy fingers into the plains states bringing a fresh covering of snow to the upper Rockies, the Dakotas and their neighbors east and south.

But Christmas was due in the southland with fair weather, save for the Atlantic seaboard and along the Miami and Dixon lines where rain, sleet or snow was the varied promise or threat.

Sunny California was bogged in the inland valleys, but elsewhere the sun was expected to do its duty by holiday makers along the southern Pacific coast. To the north, Oregon and Washington were promised unsettled weather, a bit of sun and a bit of rain.

It was 21 below zero up in Bendigo, Minn., yesterday, warmed up to zero for a while but the weatherman said the newest sub-zero onslaught of the cold wave will force Christmas Day to the border states, with fresh snow to top the heavy blanket already covering the northwest. Nebraskans plainmen were warned to protect their cattle and sheep against zero. Eastern Kansas was snowless, but zippy temperatures prevailed. Gift promoters were promised a chance to try out their low notes in Wisconsin.

A fresh ermine coat came to Indiana for Christmas Eve, five inches of snow at Crawfordsville in two hours with temperatures in the twenties to keep it fresh. Snow—perhaps the first to speak of snow—was for Michigan, parts of Ohio, western Maryland and Illinois. It was mild days.

REV. W. B. COSTLEY DIES AT RESIDENCE

88-Year-Old Minister Was Veteran of War Between States.

The Rev. Woodson B. Costley, well-known Georgia minister, and a veteran of the War Between the States, died Monday at his residence at 781 Ashland avenue, N. E., following an extended illness. He was 88 years old.

Mr. Whitley had served many churches in Georgia and he organized and helped to construct the New and white, with a cold Christmas predicted, in western Pennsylvania.

The mercury dallied around the freezing point at Washington, D. C., and rain or snow was anticipated.

But Christmas came in its twenties last night, but snow was the order of the day for Christmas.

St. Louis and southern Illinois and Missouri were given a glistening but treacherous coat of ice Monday as a drizzle of rain and sleet fell, freezing on roads and imperiling traffic.

Texas was cloudy and warm. Oklahoma sunny in the thirties. Christmas was to be colder in the southwest, but there was no promise of precipitation.

PENSION PROPOSAL GETS DISAPPROVAL OF MRS. ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt definitely set at rest today all rumors that she favored a proposal of old age pensions, at the same time reiterated her firm belief in pension security for the aged.

"I believe in old age pensions," she said in an interview.

"But the Townsend plan seems totally impractical to me. It would be impossible for me to work for that plan, for I do not see how it would ever be possible to finance it."

Under the plan in question the treasury could give $200 a month to persons over 60 to be spent within 30 months.

Hop church near Constitution, Ga., where interment will take place following funeral services at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Costley.

A native of Coweta, Mr. Costley joined the Confederate army as a youth, and was wounded in action. He entered the ministry when the war was ended. He was active in fraternal affairs for many years, and was made a master Mason while residing in St. Paulbridge, where he became a Royal Arch Master at McRae.

He was a member of Camp Walker, United Confederate Veterans, and had been a resident of Atlanta for more than 30 years. He was retired from active service to his church because of failing health.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Sarah Elizabeth Sutherland, whom he married Sept. 27, 1886, a son, E. J. Costley, well-known Atlanta businessman; three daughters, Mrs. Idella Simpson, of East Point; Mrs. Carrie Brown and Mrs. Mamie Ayers, both of Atlanta, and seven grandchildren. Three sons and a daughter are deceased.

DRIVERS CHARGED WITH AUTO TOLL BY PATROL CHIEF

Failure of motorists to live up to their responsibilities as users of streets and highways rather than the defective equipment or ordinary traffic hazards, is the more frequent cause of accidents, said Benton McMillan, chief of the Tennessee highway patrol.

McMillan is to address the Georgia safety conference here Saturday in connection with the conference on criminal procedure reform called by State Senator William M. Lester, of Atlanta.

McMillan said he based his statement on a recent survey of accidents by a national association.

"More people are killed and injured on Sundays than any other day of the week," he said. "This is due to a greater use of the rural highways and concentration of traffic on highways leading to resort and pleasure areas."

He said the danger hour for accidents is from 5 to 6 o'clock in the afternoons, adding "although there are more deaths from accidents which occur between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evenings."

A state highway patrol for Georgia will be advocated at the conference.

Gen. James McKinley Visits Atlanta on Tour

Confering with Major General George Van Horne Mossey, commander of the fourth corps area, Major General James F. McKinley, adjutant general of the army, spent Monday in Atlanta. Mrs. McKinley's former home.

General McKinley has just finished an inspection tour which has taken him to St. Louis, Fort Smith, Fort Worth, Houston and Randolph Field, Texas, and the army supply base at New Orleans. His conference with General Mossey was in reference to the adjutant general's department in this corps area. He left Monday night for Washington.

Mrs. McKinley was the former Miss Margaret Disaway, of Atlanta.

JUST A WORD.

New Year's never appealed to me as a time to take stock. I had rather see things as they happen in something of a perspective, so that the end of the year finds me headed somewhere within a quarter circle of the compass in the right direction. Often we have to seek compensation in the dark and that is never satisfactory, especially when we are trying to plot.

Looking back at 1934 I find that I have made many friends through the medium of this column. Many letters have come in which I have been unable to answer because of pressing work that had to be done; those which have as yet gone unanswered have first place in my files and will have first attention when the new year brings a slackening of pressure.

You have suggested to me things that you wanted to read; in some cases I have been able to write them. You have voiced your appreciation of what I have written, which induces a great increase in chest expansion and a beaming smile (at least I consider it so) on my countenance. You have called attention to general things, such as suggesting more details here and fewer details there. These suggestions help me to serve you better and therefore are deeply appreciated.

There are some of you who, because you live near-by, have come in to see me occasionally. Your visits are always enjoyed. A few of this number have become regulars, and we have had many a talk about this thing or that thing of interest to each one. Parents Asked To Aid 'Safe Christmas' Plan

Warming that bicycles, wagons, tricycles and other riding devices delivered from the magic bag of Santa Claus may be the source of accidents and sorrow, Jack Stoen, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, Monday issued an appeal to parents, youngsters and motorists to co-operate to make the streets safe.

"Parents should not lose sight of the fact that the riding devices bring into the lives of children many accidents and injuries. Let us all do all in our power to instruct the youngsters properly," Stoen said.

"At the same time we can not too strongly urge motorists to be alert to the contingency of sudden encounter with innocent children playing in the streets, with no thought of danger. Help make this Christmas safe."

AIR ACE OF SPAIN TAKES U.S. DUTIES

NEXT, NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Major Ramon Franco, Spanish air ace, arrived today from Spain aboard the S. S. Navemar to take up his duties as unofficial aviation observer at Washington.

Major Franco, who in 1928 became the first man to fly the South Atlantic, said that he would be appointed officially to the post of aviation attaché at the Spanish embassy within two or three months.

Bandit Slugs Victim, Escapes With $38

Bandits slugged one victim and locked another in a basement Monday in a series of robberies in Atlanta.

Paul J. McDonald, manager of the Hanover Shoe store, at 47 Peachtree street, reported that a young robber entered the store early Monday just as he was opening for the day, and forced him to work the combination of the safe. The bandit took $134 in cash and locked McDonald in the basement.

Sam F. Hawkins, of 120 Ellis street, said he was robbed of $38 early Monday morning when a bandit slugged him on the back of the head. He attempted to call the police while in a dazed condition as the robbers turned in a fire alarm, it was said. He was treated at Grady hospital for a severe scalp laceration and bruise.

G. N. Wilson, of 978 Oglethorpe avenue, S. W., fared better Monday when he was accosted by two negro hold-up men. He struck one of the robbers when they demanded money and the other shot at Wilson. The bullet pierced his overcoat, but did not touch him. The negroes ran without getting any cash.

Dividends Declared.

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Directors of the Utah Power & Light

Company today declared a dividend of $1.16 2/3 a share on the company's $7 preferred stock and $1 per share on the $8 preferred, payable February 1, 1935. It is the first dividend declared since the last quarter of 1932. The total amount of the dividend payment is $284,000.

How to Relieve Headaches In Three Minutes

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with the following simple-to-take remedy: "B. C." powder, prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded of different principles from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do so rapidly. "B. C." should also be used for relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—(ad.)

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year From Sports Staff

Odds Even on Game as Grayson Shows Complete Recovery

GREENIES, OWLS TO SPEND TODAY HARD AT WORK

Scrimmages Planned by Warner and Cox for Christmas Menu.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Christmas will be just another work day for members of the Tulane and Temple football teams, who will battle here New Year's Day for Sugar Bowl honors.

Glen "Pop" Warner and Tex Cox, who will direct their rival clubs in Dixie's postseason classic, announced plans today for hard scrimmage sessions tomorrow.

Both mentors are turning on the steam in practice sessions in an effort to bring their respective squads to peak condition for the clash.

Cox today instructed his big squad to report for "plenty of tough work" at Tulane's stadium, scene of the battle tomorrow morning. He said staff scrimmages are scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday, with Thursday fixed for the first tapering-off session.

Camped 90 miles north of New Orleans at Baton Rouge was Coach Warner and 33 Temple Owls. "Pop" said he was still working hard on offensive plays.

"We are going to scrimmage Christmas afternoon. It will be somewhat private workout, not exactly secret but without too many people around."

The Owls will be treated to a Christmas tree tomorrow morning by Laurence "Biff" Jones, who last week replaced the head coach at Louisiana State University.

Captain Jones said a tree had been erected in the barracks on the campus, where the team is quartered, and that all gifts sent the players from the north would be placed on it.

Coach Cox plans to work his team in the morning in time to give them Christmas afternoon off. He said, however, there would be no interruption in training routine.

Meanwhile, brisk demand for Sugar Bowl tickets continued. Officials of the midwinter sports carnival, sponsoring the affair, said practically all reserve seats had been sold and that general admission tickets would be placed on sale tomorrow.

Dizzy Wishes All Merry Xmas

BOND, Miss., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, dazzlingest member of that famous brother team, propped his feet before a huge log fire in the home of his father-in-law here tonight and waited for Santa Claus.

"The old fellow is a grand person," mused Jerome as the fire's flicker revealed a broad, satisfied smile on baseball's most colorful figure.

"It's going to be a real Christmas. Everybody is so kind, and this has been the greatest year of my life."

Silent for a moment as if recalling what the past year had brought him, "Dizzy" suddenly exclaimed: "We wish everybody a Merry Christmas. They have all been so great to us."

He was speaking both for himself and his brother Paul, who left last night with his bride of a week, the former Dorothy Sandusky, of Russellville, Ark., for Houston, Texas, to spend Christmas Day with his father, A. M. Dean.

In one corner of the big room stood a huge Christmas tree, richly decorated. And it tomorrow will gather "Diz's" wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Nash, and members of their family.

"Diz" has arranged for a gala day. He plans to present the youngsters of the community more than 100 baseball bats and all kinds of fruits and candies. "There'll be plenty of presents," he added.

As for Mr. and Mrs. "Diz," Santa is going to have to work overtime new speed boat, a motion picture camera, a huge radio and furniture are a few of the gifts that already have arrived.

"It's going to be a great day," Diz repeated, and you mustn't forget the dinner. They'll be fresh country park with all the trimmings, fruit, stick candy and everything that goes to make up a real Christmas."

Aragon Five Wins Over Atco Mills

ARAGON, Ga., Dec. 24.—Aragon Mills opened its basketball season with a 38-to-23 victory over the Atco Mills here. L. Garrison and Williams, with 10 points each, led the scoring for the winners.

Atco's scoring was well divided, with each player getting at least four points.

Aragon is anxious to arrange games with any strong, quiet and games will be scheduled with Hugh Gaston, at the Aragon Mills office.

Spicer Turns Pro, Plans Much Play

MEMPHIS Tenn., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Emmett Spicer Jr., twice southern amateur and five times Memphis city champion, today announced that he was turning professional. He will compete in many open golf tournaments east and west.

Spicer will pair up with O'Neal (Bucket) White, Memphis pro. They will "incorporate" selling stock in themselves, and compete in the big tournaments.

They plan to leave Memphis January 5 for Los Angeles where they will participate in the Los Angeles open. Later they will go to Fresno, Calif., to play in an open there. January 16-17: Sacramento, January 18-20: San Francisco, January 24-25.

BREAK of the DAY!
By Ralph McGill

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 24.—Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.

And the reason I know is that he will positively appear at the Huntington hotel Christmas night where a special Christmas tree has been prepared for the Alabama football team.

Oh, yes, we finally got here. We came right down the Imperial valley this morning, riding through the orange groves and docking at Pasadena shortly before noon. We were met by newspapermen, sound cameramen and alumni of Alabama, also synthetic alumni who had reasons which they thought would land them a ticket to the Rose Bowl game.

And the boys had their first workout on California soil this afternoon with a goodly crowd looking on as Coach Frank Thomas, with the spirit of Old St. Nicholas in his heart, gave all the boys a Christmas present of a look at his team.

They were short of breath and looked bad and all that sort of thing. They always do on the first day.

But this is Christmas Eve. And it does seem a bit queer to be here on a Christmas even with the winds balmy and with oranges and lemons growing out there on the lawn.

I wonder how they put old Santa Claus across out here. Even a two-year-old will know that it never snows here and that old Santa Claus could no more get here with a sled and reindeer than he could on a kiddie car.

And these country boys from Alabama, most of whom have never been away from home on Christmas and few of whom have ever traveled this far before, were a bit home-sick tonight in the grandeur of this hotel.

I suspect that had old Santa Claus not made his appearance here Christmas night there would have been many of these big football players who would have put a face down on his pillow and shed a tear or so wishing he were home with mama and papa, ever.

CHRISTMAS AT SEA.

I have seen a lot of football teams away from home at Christmas time. And I have seen a lot of Santa Claus parties for them.

But the most unusual I have ever seen was the one of Christmas in 1932. It was with Georgia Tech when the Jackets were at sea going down to the Panama canal from their game at Berkeley, California.

We were aboard the big steamship Virginia and were just a day or so out of Panama. It was hotter than a July day on Peachtree street and your old correspondent, who has one of those forms which makes him an immediate target for a Santa Claus choice, was doing duty.

There was a Santa Claus suit on board with fur trimmings and it was hotter than an asphalt street at 12 o'clock noon on the fourth of August.

But standing there that night, in the big dining salon, with a Christmas tree lighted and the odor of pine in the air—and looking into the faces of those kids from Georgia who were thousands of miles from home and out there on the ocean—well, it was quite a wallop.

And afterward I went up on deck where there was a cool breeze and listened to the water go, "Soughhh-souhhhh-souhhhh" off the prow of the ship and felt very sentimental about it all.

I like my Christmas to be cold and a wind to be blowing and I like it all the better if there are four or five inches of snow on the ground.

THE EX-PATRIATES.

It's curious—about these people from south of the Smith and Wesson line.

They never really get over it. I mean they never get over a liking for the drawl and the people and the talk.

At San Antonio they were there at the train, listening to the talk, their eyes bright. They were from the small towns of Alabama and Georgia and Tennessee. And some destiny had set them down in Texas or Arizona or California. And here was a southern team coming through and so they all cranked up and came down to see it.

They were at Tucson, Arizona, and at Pasadena. And tonight they are here at the hotel—asking about this man and that. Maybe seeing someone they hadn't seen in years.

And all the "R's" were slurred and they cussed each other affectionately and slapped backs and hoped Alabama would win. It was a little bit of home put down here for them.

SIXTY-FIVE BARBERS.

It was while fanning with Mr. Frank Thomas just the other day that I came across a very curious story.

There are all sorts of comforts on these transcontinental trains such as barber shops, shower baths and a pressing shop.

And so help me if 65 barbers didn't apply for the job of shaving and cutting hair on the Crimson Tide special. Sixty-five of them.

And they had to be careful about choosing the right barber. Because one who isn't used to shaving customers on a moving train is likely to cut more throats than did the Three Musketeers.

That is a real adventure—getting a shave as the train rushes on, swaying and bumping a bit. That razor seems SO intimate.

SPEAKING OF SANTA CLAUS.

Speaking of Santa Claus, the old boy is really coming to Alabama and the Stanfords on January 1. This game is going to set a new record for the Rose Bowl. It has been completed since 1931 and now seats exactly 84,077 people.

Every seat will be sold and a thousand or so temporary seats, maybe several thousand of them, will be sold.

It is absolutely certain that 85,000 people will see the game, the largest crowd that has ever seen the annual game. And it would not be surprising were 90,000 sitting there when the kick-off is made. Unless, of course, California should produce one of its annual storms of rain.

Seventy per cent of the tickets retail for $4.40 per copy and the remainder of them go for $2.20. This game is going to run into important funds for both teams. It should reach near $300,000.

And if that isn't Santa Claus, then I am all wrong.

Incidentally, this should be quite an answer to a weekly news magazine which took a gratuitous slap at Alabama recently and doubted if the team was a good representative for the east. And added, "and anyhow, Alabama will not draw out there."

Alabama has always drawn great crowds, larger than those pulled in Pittsburgh and other eastern teams. And this year sets the record.

BERNIE MOORE IS SUCCESSOR TO BIFF JONES

L. S. U. Track Coach Is Promoted; Has Huey Long's Okay.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Bear Huey Long's okay, Bernie Moore on January 1 will step into the shoes of Captain Laurence "Biff" Jones, who resigned as head football coach at Louisiana State University following a tilt with the "Kingfish."

Moore, who has served as head track coach and assistant football coach at L. S. U. since 1929, will take over his new duties with the formal approval of university officials and Senator Long, and the reported support of the team.

His selection to succeed Jones, who gave L. S. U. three years of winning football after being brought to Baton Rouge from West Point by Long, was announced by President James Monroe Smith, who said the new head coach would serve without a contract.

PROMOTING HIM.
"We're just promoting him," Smith declared. "His salary will be about the same as Jones', about $7,000 or $8,000."

Long gave his approval to Moore's appointment in a brief statement, declaring "he was the choice of university officials and the football team, so he's okay with me."

Jones resigned following the Tigers' final game of the season with Oregon University, after an argument with the "Kingfish" over the latter's attempt to address the players between halves.

Explaining his action, Captain Jones said Long "simply couldn't understand the coast doesn't like to be interfered with."

Student reaction to Moore's appointment was not available since most of the 5,000 students were at their homes for Christmas vacation.

Abe Mickal, the Tigers' star halfback, was the last member of the team to leave in view of the new mentor. He expressed approval from a hospital bed where he is confined following a minor operation.

JONES OKAYS HIM.

Captain Jones also added his approval, declaring "I think it's a fine selection." He said there is nothing in his plans and intentions that he intends giving up coaching for at least two years and hopes to obtain an army assignment to the school of command at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. His assignment at L. S. U. terminated in June, 1936.

Moore, who is spending his holidays at Winchester, Tenn., said he had been notified of his appointment by President Smith and added that he intends to retain the present staff of assistant coaches composed of Bert Ingerson, Joel Hunt and Ben Enis.

Although well known throughout southern football, Moore gained distinction for his track teams. Three years after taking over track and field activities at L. S. U. Moore turned out a national collegiate championship team built around such stars as Glen "Slats" Hardin, quarter-mile and champion, and Jack Torrance, world's champion putter.

THURSTON WORKS.

His football activities at Louisiana State have largely been devoted to development of freshman material and scouting work.

Moore started his coaching career at Winchester High school in 1919, served two years in the army during the war and returned as coach at LaGrange, Georgia, from where he moved to Allen Academy in Texas.

In 1923 he was named assistant football coach for the University of the South, and in 1925 switched to Mercer, where he served until 1928. He joined the L. S. U. staff the following year.

Moore plans to attend the annual meeting of the National Coaches Association opening in New York Wednesday, before returning to Baton Rouge and to his coaching work.

L. S. U. Still Wants Coach Thomas.

By Ralph McGill.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 24.—White Bernie Moore, track coach at L. S. U. and formerly assistant coach at Mercer and at Sewanee, has been given the head coach job at the Baton Rouge institution, the school is still interested in Frank Thomas, Alabama coach, and may repeat the campaign to hire him.

Moore was hired when Thomas could not give an answer. Huey Long is still interested in Thomas and will keep trying to get him.

T. P. (Red) Heard rode all the way to Los Angeles to talk with Thomas and offer the job to him. Heard refuses to talk at all. Thomas remains under contract.

GREAT JOB.

Moore was to get the job if Thomas didn't take it. And so the announcement did not come as a surprise. Moore has done a great job as assistant coach and as track coach. He is scheduled to be promoted first assistant to Lawson Robinson, head coach of the American Olympic team.

Moore's popularity and the fact that he knows how to play ball with Huey Long were factors in Moore's favor. He is friendly with Long and gets along with him.

L. S. U. wanted a nationally-known coach to offset the damage done by the resignation of Biff Jones, who quit after the Kingfish's arrival.

WANTED THOMAS.
Thomas was the man L. S. U. wanted most. But he had signed a contract with Alabama and was undecided regarding the L. S. U. job. It was understood that Herd, despite his refusal to discuss the matter at all, was authorized to offer a $15,000 contract for five years.

Herd was asked what he thought of Moore.

"He is a good man and a good coach," he said.

Moore is understood to be at his home in Tennessee.

Another factor in Moore's favor is that the same system which Jones made so effective can be carried on by Moore.

The tree which yields the essential stuff of chewing gum has a sweet fruit like a little potato.

EAST AND WEST SPEED UP WORK FOR BIG GAME

Both Squads Are Given Full Quota of Plays.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—(P)—Eastern and western stars speeded up workouts today for the annual charity football game here. New Year's Day. The east squad, under Coaches Andy Kerr of Columbia, Frank Dickey, Huley, until recently in charge at Northwestern, drilled for two hours in San Francisco before moving to new quarters at Berkeley.

At Palo Alto the western players pounded through morning and afternoon workouts under the direction of Coaches Orin Hollingsberry, of Washington State, and Percy Loecey, of Denver.

Each squad was given its full quota of plays, around 20.

Coach Kerr was nursing a cold. In the meantime his colleague, Hanley, handled the brunt of the work with two elevens lining up as follows:

Rival coaches said the lineups were tentative. Starting elevens probably will not be named until the day of the game.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

You wouldn't think that anyone smart enough to have the time and money to play golf would work by the hour on the practice tee almost without purpose, yet I know of many such happenings.

The head of a big industrial corporation hits something like 300 balls in one practice session. The pro trying to help him during one of these sessions suggested that he take a few practice shots before each shot. The man refused, saying that he didn't want to take the time.

A few swings might enable him to check up on the moves he was making and give him something to watch for in each shot. I hope you are reading this and are practicing simply to work up a sweat. Have something to strive for every minute you're practicing.

Johnny Mize Goes To Reds for $55,000

CINCINNATI, Dec. 24.—(P)—Powel Crosley, president of the Cincinnati Reds, today announced purchase of First Baseman Johnny Mize from the St. Louis Cardinals for $55,000.

Though he will not be 21 until January 7, Mize hit .350 in 42 games with Rochester of the International League, and .340 this year despite an injury that laid him up in mid-season. The trade involves guarantees of his delivery in good physical condition.

Mize makes his home in Demarest, N.J. He is the fifth young player to be acquired by the Reds, recent weeks the others being Ival Goodman and Sam Byrd, outfielders; Lew Riger, third-sacker, and Billy Myers, shortstop.

Sprained Ankles Hurt Miami Squad

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 24.—(P)—An epidemic of sprained ankles plagued the University of Miami's football squad in its drill today for the New Year's Day game here with Bucknell University, of Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.

Oscar Cook, the Hurricane's star backfielder; George Bailey, substitute fullback; and Mel Horner, substitute half, were forced out of scrummage with sprained right ankles.

Baby Boasts Tooth at 8 Days

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—Parents of Harold Dean Perry are holding him up with his mouth open so visitors can see the tooth which the eight-day-old lad cut recently. Generally seven to eight months is required to eat the first tooth, but babies have been born with teeth, doctors say.

THE SPORTLIGHT By Grantland Rice

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

THE ANCIENT CALL

The sheep's in the meadow—the cow's in the corn,
The crowd's in the street, where dreams are few,
So Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn
And lead us back to a dream that's true.

Soft and low, like a fair wind sighing,
Sound one note with the old-time cheer,

Most of our dreams are dead, or dying,
So take us back to a vanished year.

Little Boy Blue, you will never know
Just how far we have wandered away

From the little horn we used to blow

In the golden faith of a golden day,

Faint and dim like lost winds calling,

Soft and low as a mother's prayer,

Now we stand where the dusk is falling,

Groping for dreams that are never there.

One by one, we have searched for the crown
Or followed the phantom wraith called fame,

And one by one, in the lonesome town,

We've turned our eyes to the ancient flame

Of home-hearth glow, with reindeer leaping

Over the hills in their northland flight,

Back to the berries of scarlet and white.

By farm and city we turn again
Where shadows gather along the wall;

Where feet patter across the den

And voices come with a ghostly call,

The eerie roll of the toy drum lingers

Over a world where the fir tree waits;

Music blown from forgotten singers

Who've long since passed through the morning gates.

Little Boy Blue, are you hiding still Under the haystack—fast asleep?

Sound one note with the old-time thrill

As dusk comes on where the dark is deep,

One clear call from a vanished morning

Of sleigh-bells singing across the snow,

Where holly hangs on the walls, adorning

The heart of home that we used to know.

Petrels Open at Home With Y'5' Wednesday

Oglethorpe Club About Ready To Climb Out of Trenches, Overton Thinks.

By Jack Troy.

Gaining needed experience in every game, Oglethorpe's basketball team is expected soon to get a grip on itself and pull itself out of the trenches.

Coach Jack Overton is sending his club through the hardest kind of opening schedule, figuring that to be the only way experience will come and come quickly.

The Stormy Petrels have not done so badly by themselves since the opening game with Kentucky. They defeated Cumberland and dropped a couple of games to Georgia.

In the first game with Georgia accurate passing probably cost them the game. But the Petrels showed promise. They took a licking the second game but continued to show improvement.

AT 8 O'CLOCK.

The first home game is scheduled Wednesday night at Chamblee. This time Oglethorpe is taking on the strong Y. U. A. team.

The "Y" five opened its season against South Georgia Teachers with a 33-25 victory. Tommy Reeder, entering the game as a substitute, pulled the game out of the fire, so speak.

Members of the current "Y" team include Will and Phillips, forwards; McDaniel, center; Tate and Moore, guards; Virlyn Moore is one of the chief mainstays.

Coach Overton, of Oglethorpe, expects to start the same five players against the "Y." They are Sullivan and Johnson, forwards; Copeland, center, and Moon and Fisher, guards.

Onward, Petrels!

Overton thinks his club is about ready to shed its newness in intercollegiate and interclub competition and start winning. He is not at all sure this will be done at the expense of the "Y," but he is hopeful.

Others almost sure to start were Head Play, here for a comeback; Rikulus, Top Row, High Glee, Frankmont, Dark Winter, Thomassville, Brown, Grafton, Whitehouse, Jabot, Chincoteague, Navaho, Mad Trump and Fife.

Onward, Petrels! The club is about to start.

In effect, without letting down traditional barriers or making any attempt to "buy" football material, the Ithaca institution extends the olive branch to its alumni, who are invited to co-operate in providing scholarship benefits for men with athletic ability, provided only that "character and brains remain the primary conditions."

Cornell's stand brings out into the open the subject of doing something more than just attending good athletics as well as good students to universities struggling between the keen desire for athletic prestige and the stern restrictions of high academic standards.

By FRIDERIC GARDNER

stock market was somewhat more cheerful front today in listless trading before the Christmas recess.

Moderate gains predominated as the market crept ahead hesitatingly to a slow close. A few shares scored good advances. American Can touched a

1934 peak at 111, up more than 2 points, and J. Case, du Pont, Ameri-

cable, and Marcellar, Union Carbides and General Motors were up 1 to about 2 points.

Wall Street gave expression to the Christmas spirit of merrymaking outside the markets. Turnover dropped to 808,620 shares compared with 915,820 last Friday.

Market analysts emphasized political uncertainties in connection with the forthcoming session of Congress and advanced evidence of business improvement. Steel operations scored an unexpected year-end gain, the tenth consecutive weekly advance.

Reports the automotive and farm implement industries were leading sources of year-end demand for steel attracted buying to motor and farm implement shares. Deere rose nearly

2 points and International Harvester about 1 point.

Traders Absent.

With many traders absent from the financial district for the holidays,

dealings were slow in nearly all markets and movements narrow. Some of the commodity markets were closed

Corporation attracted attention, closing 3-4 points higher. A small biplane, "Whe-wolf," up 1.8, to 24, made a bushel in Chicago. Cotton futures in New York were unchanged to 35 cents a bale higher.

Top-grade investments met steady buying around peak prices for the year, but the listed bond market generally was mixed.

Steel Share Improve.

Steel shares improved a bit on the American Iron & Steel Institute's estimate that the current operating rate of the industry had moved to 82 per cent of capacity from 34.6 per cent

ago. Steel authorities pointed out sustained operations of the industry

were contrary to the usual year-end tendencies.

Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Republic

and National Steel finished fraction-ally to more than a point higher.

Some of the recently hard-pressed utilities rallied.

Buying of can shares was accompanied by a general year-end gain in tinsplate production.

The passing of the peak of the Christmas retail trade was mirrored in lower quotations for some merchandising shares. R. H. Macy dipped a point, but mail order shares were firm.

Rails stayed in a rut.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks advanced seven-tenth s of a point to 72.4.

Preliminary quiet embraced the former exchange market.

By VICTOR EUBORN.
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Trading was of a typical pre-holiday character on the bond market today, but prices in all sections of the corporate list were well maintained. Government bonds were a trifle lower.

Transfers of $10,043,000 par value, compared with $10,320,000 on Friday. The Standard Statistics Company average of 60 domestic corporate loans advanced one-tenth of a point to 85.5.

Several prime investment bonds advanced through their old highs for the 1 1/2 points at 102, and Linnett C. Myers 7s, up 7 1/2 at 131. Other issues selling higher included obligations of Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Pennsylvania railroad, Public Service, Shell Union and Union Pacific.

Prices of lower grade bonds averaged higher with a number gaining substantially.

Trading was too small in treasury issues to establish a definite trend. The 3 3/4s of 1946-56 gained 4 1/2dcs to 106.31 and the 4 1/4s of 1947 were 2 3/2ds lower at 112.31.

Japanese government bonds were slightly lower in the foreign section, while municipal obligations were in better demand and improved as much as a point in some cases.

Market Outlook

by
MAX BUCKINGHAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(UP) Wall Street celebrated Christmas with all the cheer for the market gave a good account of itself in today's pre-holiday session.

Traders and brokers came into the district today expecting little. They were optimistic but hesitant to trade. Yet during the day the list—with exception of rails—showed advances up to two points, with leading industrials in the van, and $10,000 shares exchanged. Buying was quiet but steady.

Business improvements in proving the oil index operators said that Tom's market reflected that improvement. The leader was American Can, which advanced to a new year's high at 111 for more than 2 points gain, while motor shares, farm equipment and some leading industrials all improved. The betterment for motor shares is apparent as the auto dealers are induced now and again to bring buying into such shares. In addition this year the industry is looking forward to tremendously increased production in 1935. Leading western operators have been accumulating shares of major companies in recent months.

FAVORABLE ITEM.

One of the most favorable items of news had to consider during the day was steel output. The American Iron and Steel Institute reported production at 352 per cent of capacity, a gain of 1.70 per cent over the preceding week. It was the tenth consecutive weekly rise and carried the national average to the highest level since June 25.

In addition to this mill managers in the Youngstown (Ohio) district reported that production at the end of December would be at 44 per cent of capacity. This is the highest rate for the end of December since 1929.

Other favorable items included:

The farm equipment industry continues to look forward to good business in 1935.

BUSINESS PICK-UP.

Small business reported business showing a pick-up during the holiday season. This comes with the tremendous increase in retail trade. In connection with the latter, indications from Boston were that retail trade for the month would be about 10 per cent greater than in 1933. The sharp increase during the first two weeks of the month slowed down and led to the realization that Christmas shopping was done earlier this year.

The National Fertilizer Association index showed that wholesale commodity prices had risen slightly in the past two weeks.

Florida travel continues extremely good and earlier forecasts for the season's business have been exceeded. In addition steamship companies report heavy excursion travel while railroads have found a marked improvement in Christmas travel. Railroads, however, still are confronting difficulties as the first 11 roads to report operating income for November showed a decline of 16.9 per cent from the November, 1933 figures.

Miss Meador and Miss Townley Make Formal Bows at Tea-Dance

Youthful social circles assembled at the Piedmont Driving Club Christmas Eve to honor Misses Josephine Meador and Rosemary Townley, popular debutantes, upon the occasion of their formal presentation to Atlanta society, as an elaborate tea-dance, which their mothers, Mrs. Fred Meador Jr. and Mrs. John M. Townley, were co-hostesses. Five hundred guests attended the affair between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock, which was one of the most elaborate and enjoyable of the holidays.

Entering the ballroom at the club, which was flanked on either side by decorated Christmas trees, the guests were received at the eastern end of the room by the hostess and honorees, who stood before a large lighted Christmas tree and quantities of rich greenery. The trees were interspersed with many floral tributes sent by the two charming debutantes.

The two tea tables placed on opposite sides of the room presented a scene of unusual beauty fashioned along classic lines. The handsome red silk curtains fell from the floor in graceful folds, their edges in white satin added to the beauty. Miss Townley, with quilted top and long sleeves and high collar in the back. Her hat was a wide brim blue off-the-face model which matched her dress, and her flowers were gardenias.

Mrs. Meador was a handsome figure in a black velvet gown, the becoming lace bodice worn with a modish neck hat and gardenias. Mrs. John M. Townley, like her daughter, chose blue and wore sapphire krinkle satin trimmed with gold, with hat to match and orchids.

Miss Jackson was lovely in wine-colored velvet, fashioned along becoming lines, with hat to match and a corsage of bronze orchids.

Mrs. Perry was lovely in untrammelled black. Ipons velvet fashioned robe style, with a black off-the-face hat and gardenias.

As hosts of the festivity, in entertainment were Mesdames S. D. H. McDonald, George Eubank Jr., Green D. Warren, Thomas Giblin Jr., Misses Sara Lewis, Julia Block, Florence Kennedy and Anna Harris.

Santa Claus Brings Happiness to Charming Atlanta Children

The true significance of Christmas is reflected in the starry-eyed and happy faces of little Miss Mary Lee McGinnis and Claude McGinnis III, seated on the lap of that adored Santa Claus. These attractive children's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude McGinnis Jr., the latter being the former Miss Rebecca Ashcraft, who is president of the Atlanta Junior League. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashcraft and Mr. and Mrs. Claude McGinnis Sr., of this city, are their grandparents. The appealing photograph was snapped by Kenneth Rogers, The Constitution staff photographer, when these prominent Atlanta children visited Santa Claus recently at Toyland at Davison-Paxon Company.

Miss Bagley Issues Christmas Greeting

Miss Mattie Kate Bagley, of Columbus, president of the Georgia Department of the American Legion Auxiliary, expresses her Christmas greetings in a most impressive and appealing message, in which she says:

"Merry Christmas to the members of my department, to my friends in the Legion and auxiliary, and to all our veterans who preserved for us our American freedom. I send my greetings for a Yuletide season filled with hope and faith and love."

"Christmas brings wistfulness with its joys, no matter how happy a season may be—it brings memories of the old and of old friends of by-gone days. It brings us the Christmas star with its age-old message of faith and hope. From its light we set afire the Yule log of cheer in our hearts, and take fresh courage for the days ahead."

"The love that sent the Christ child to the world is still with us. Its wonder gives us faith in ourselves, in mankind, in America. It gives us heart to face whatever may come. It gives us a new joy, a peace."

"So hearts that have been wearied with the problems of the past years beat again with the joyousness of youth. Refreshed we face tomorrow, hopefully we go forward with our work."

"To my comrades I say, 'Merry Christmas' and to the Legion I give my promise of support and loyalty to you all, may the Spirit of Christmas flame bright in your hearts."

Misses Yundt and Boykin Make Debut at Gay Christmas Ball

With the arrival of a modernistic chid completed her beautiful costume. Mrs. Boykin's gown was fashioned of white crepe and embroidered in iridescent and trimmmed with an ornate shaded velvet girdle. She wore a shoulder spray of orchids.

Mrs. Yundt was gowned in Mediterrenean blue, most lavishly trimmmed on either shoulder by blue ornaments in the same shade. She wore a cluster of deep purple orchids on her left shoulder.

The decorations in the ballroom and adjoining salons featured the Yuletide motif with a live Christmas tree, from which sprays of evergreen and lights twinkled, standing before the broad fireplace. Two smaller Christmas trees stood on either side of the entrance to the ballroom. Punch was served in the loggia from bowls embedded in poinsettias and amilax. Superette was served at a late hour after the dancing continued, the orchestra playing popular airs throughout the evening.

Popular Debuts. Misses Yundt and Miss Boykin, who are cousins, are listed among the most popular members of Atlanta's 1933-35 Debutante Club. The unusually attractive debutes are the granddaughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Peirce who were well known among Atlanta's most beloved and influential citizens. Miss Lucy Yundt is a member of the senior class at Vassar College and in early January she will return to that well-known institution to resume her studies. Her sister, Miss Marion Yundt is a graduate of Washington Seminary and last summer was graduated from the Gardner School of Home Making in Boston, Massachusetts.

Miss Boykin is the elder daughter of her parents and is enrolled at the Marjorie Webster school in Washington, D. C., having arrived from the national capital a few days ago to spend the Christmas vacation at home. She will return to Washington soon after the holidays to continue her studies at this school. Throughout the holidays Miss Boykin will share honors with her cousins, Misses Yundt and Lucy.

Miss Boykin was gowned in a striking model of turquoise blue lace with gold threads fashioned over shimmering ice blue satin. Reaching to a short train length in the back the gown was a full gown, decorated down the front with a black velvet belt. The bodice was in the modish silhouette style the dresses reached to a floor length with short trains at the back. Narrow girdles of gold cloth formed the waistlines where short pleats were introduced as the only trimming. They wore gold-colored gloves and carried bouquets of yellow roses fringed with valerian. A garland of orchids graced their left shoulders.

Miss Schneider Weds Hayne Ergle.

Beauty and simplicity marked the wedding ceremony of Miss Louise Schneider to Hayne Ergle, Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Derby, at the Atlanta Motor Inn, East Point.

An improvised altar was erected in front of the stone fireplace in the living room. Seven-branched candelabra were placed on either side of the altar and held white tapers.

preceding the ceremony nuptial music was played by Mrs. Howard Nixon, pianist, with "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawnning."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, William M. Schneider. Her attendants were Misses Jerry Robinson, Margaret Collins and Audrey Warnock, Ray Ergle, William Rogers and Preston Hill.

The bride wore a brown suit with a sash and accessories of brown. She wore a cluster of orchids and valley lilies. The attendants wore blue crepe and shoulder bouquets of talisman roses.

The bridegroom's mother was gowned in green crepe with a cluster of carnations, roses and swansons.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ergle will be at home with the bride's parents on Jefferson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Murrah Are Supper Hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Murrah entertained at their home on Drewry street Sunday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slater.

Christmas foliage combined with colorful decorations throughout the rooms where the guests were received. The dining table held in the center a mound of pinsettes encircled with holly.

The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slater, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Canfield and Misses Gertie, Mrs. E. L. Bell, Muriel Harris, Virginia Garrison, Francis Boozer, Laura Powell, Lucile Breen, and Charles Willis, John Morrison, George Henry Baldwin and Joe Luttrell.

Rowe—Walton.

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga., Dec. 24.—The marriage of Miss Sherrie Rowe to Joe Walton took place Friday, December 21, in Social Circle.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rowe. After graduation from the local high school she attended Western College. She is a talented musician and a very attractive young woman.

Since coming from North Carolina to Social Circle as superintendent of the cotton mill, Mr. Walton has made many friends and occupies a leading position in the affairs of the city and its social life.

After their return from a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple will take possession of their home here.

Moore—Hunt.

ELBERTON, Ga., Dec. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Taylor announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Flora Taylor Moore, to Tom Hunt of Hartwell, which took place at Anderson, S. C., on Wednesday, December 5.

With little pretense at being epochal, "Fugitive Lady," nevertheless, succeeds in providing splendid entertainment, all mounted and well-acted. Neil Hamilton, Donald Cook and Florence Rice, a newcomer to the screen, acquit themselves creditably in the leading roles.

The story concerns the complications that ensue when Miss Rice is brought to the home of Neil Hamilton following a train wreck, in which she is circumstantially identified as Hamilton's wife, a casualty in the disaster. Miss Rice is a fugitive from justice, but decides to remain with Hamilton, when the latter shows more than a casual interest in her welfare. The dramatic climax occurs when Cook, a gentleman burglar, and former fiancée of Miss Rice, arrives on the scene. He vindicates Miss Rice to her prison sentence from which she was fleeing at the time of the train wreck and Hamilton and Miss Rice are left to pursue their new found happiness.

JOHNSON IN TRUCE WITH RICHBERG

Two Exchange Season's
Greetings After Week-End Messages.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The eve of the Christmas holiday season, it was learned today that Donald Richberg and Hugh S. Johnson had substituted the season's greeting for their acrimonious week-end exchanges.

Richberg, director of the national emergency council, issued a statement from a sick bed, asserting he did not expect any suit for libel on his part to follow a series of magazine articles written by Johnson, former NRA administrator.

The articles have yet to appear, but beforehand Richberg, who was general manager of NRA under Johnson, warned the magazine that he would hold it "legally responsible for any unauthorized attacks upon himself that they contained."

Restraining Denied.

"I have not the faintest intention of restraining any freedom of the press in writing to General Johnson's publications," Richberg said today.

After Richberg's letter of warning to the publishers was printed, Johnson said at Okmulgee, Okla., where he is visiting his mother, that Richberg was trying to use his position "to obtain the freedom of the press."

The outspoken Johnson also termed Richberg's original letter "a symptom of the ants of conscience in his pants."

The two fell out over NRA policies and reorganization.

Nothing Personal.

He added that Johnson had assured him "there was no personal or scurrilous in his book and wished me a merry Christmas." Richberg added that he had "reciprocated" and "I trust this will settle the incident."

From Okmulgee, however, came word that Johnson had sent the Christmas greetings before Richberg's letter was published. It was reported from there that the general felt that the emergency council head should "do the talking" henceforth.

The recriminations between Johnson and Richberg may have ended for the time being, but few officials expected the two to restore the friendship that characterized their early days at NRA. Publications of Johnson's articles may bring some further statement from the emergency council head.

Also on the bill is an animated cartoon shown done in technicolor, a Pilgrim Traveler, and a comprehensive review of the year's news events by Edwin C. Hill.

French Delay Vote
On Dual Tax Pact

PARIS, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The senate Sunday sidetracked until January 8 the treaty between the United States and France abolishing double taxation, despite the plea of Foreign Minister Pierre Laval that it be approved before Christmas adjourned.

The vote on the bill was taken yesterday after a delay of a half year. It was signed in April, 1932 by Andre Tardieu as premier and Walter E. Edge as American ambassador, and was approved by the United States.

The French senate sent the treaty to the finance committee until readjourned. The purpose of the accord is to define bases of taxation and it is looked upon as a medium to improve Franco-American trade relations.

The simple word "mail" is one of great import here.

Chief Cook Carbone dug up the beef at the bottom of the mail box described as one of welcome anticipation after the unchanging cycles of seal steaks, corned beef, salt horse and ancient mutton.

Chief Cook Carbone dug up the beef for three days under the eyes of the watchman. Along with the beef, which will be served in small pieces, will be soup, creamed corn, potatoes, cranberry sauce, apple pie and ice cream, and some sherry. The latter disappeared for a time, giving rise to thoughts about hijackers. Finally it was found.

DUTY LIFTED ON HAY
FOR U. S. DROUGHT AREAS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Hay may now be imported duty-free from Canada for use in the drought areas of the United States.

Under an agreement signed today by Secretary Wallace, an "agency for deficiency distribution" was set up to import hay from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba into drought areas of five north central states.

The simple word "mail" is one of great importance here.

Circus Ball Features Ballyhoo Celebration at Standard Club

Christmas dawned at the Standard Club Tuesday evening amid joyous mirth and movement in which several hundred prominent Atlantians participated. Sponsored by the Atlanta Ballyhoo, this annual event assumed the nature of a circus ball, many guests wearing vivid and colorful costumes suggestive of circus life. The spacious ballroom of the club was transformed to represent a large circus tent. Side shows housed in small tents added gayety and originality to the scene as did vendors of popcorn, red lemonade, soft drinks, wieners, etc. Among the amazing features were animal exhibits. Guests were guests assembled to have their palms read... Throughout the evening an orchestra played popular music, members of the orchestra wearing animal costumes and were seated in a huge iron cage...

The arrival of Christmas was heralded at midnight by trumpet blasts followed by a grand march with guests in costume participating, the march being led by Simon Selig, president of the Standard Club, and Mrs. Sellig. The annual Ballyhoo group will close its annual three-day celebration this evening with a formal dance at the Standard Club, this affair to be preceded by a tea-dance this afternoon.

Julian Joselove is president of the Atlanta Ballyhoo, with Elliott Haas, vice-president; Edwin Leffler Jr., treasurer; Herbert Rosenberg, secretary. Marcus Haas is chairman of entertainment and other members on the committee are Edgar J. Straus, vice-chairman; Louis C. Long, Ben F. Fineberg and Eddie Melniker.

Members of the invitation committee include Randolph Cumming, chairman; Jack Goldberg and Frank Lesser.

Mrs. Poole's Tea.
On Sunday afternoon Mrs. John J. Poole entertained at tea at her home on Oakdale road honoring Miss Ernestine Collins and Sam Hubbard, whose wedding will be an event of January. Red and green formed the keynote of the color scheme, the decorations consisting of a profusion of poinsettias.

At each end of the exquisitely appointed tea table were tea services, over which Mrs. Harry Morgan and Mrs. Grady Lee presided. Those assisting were Mrs. R. D. Robinson, Mrs. Milton K. Martin, Miss Mary Nell Cooper, Miss Louise McCoy and Mrs. Norman C. Harper.

Miss Collins wore an afternoon gown of black with a chartreuse sash-tunic, and Mrs. Poole was gowned in black velvet, trimmed with rhinestones.

C. Y. McCOLLUM

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR

NOW LISTEN TO ME—

When the first of the year rolls around and the bills begin to pile up and the head begins to ache—think of me—I am busy now working out several plans, and they are all painless, to take care of folks who need a little refinancing and consolidating after the holiday season.

Come up and see me and let's talk the situation over and get started off on the right foot with our finances. Give me a phone call at WA. 5771 or come to 311 William-Oliver Bldg. at 5 Points.

So, go ahead and have a big time during the holidays; then come on up and I will try and take care of you.

To My Friends Everywhere,

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

We are living in the closing days of the gentle dispensation. See third chapter, 2nd Tim. 24 and 25 chapters Math.

DAILY SHORT STORY EVER GREEN

Trees Were Trees to Guy, Except for One Balsam Inscribed With a Heart and Two Initials.

By ARTHUR G. LEISMAN.

As he trudged through the gray darkness of a clear, sky-jeweled Christmas Eve Guy lamented that he had failed to find the tree he had traveled so far on foot to claim. The balsam was perfect in symmetry of form and emitted excellent fragrance, to be sure, but it did not possess the sentimental value of the one he had sought.

"It's a secret I've been saving."

Now he realized with regret that his surprise was not going to materialize. He had found the place of sweet memories, but not the treasured tree. Some one else had chopped it down and borne it away. From the color of the chips he judged the deed had been done within a month.

He hastened his footsteps as the thought came to him that Ruth was probably worrying over his delay in reaching home.

He was right. Ruth found immediate relief in the sound of Guy's footsteps on the back porch. Headless of the cold she flung open the door, threw her bare arms around his neck and kissed him rapturously.

Guy did not attempt to reveal the real purpose of his jaunt to the tamarack swamp. After the heat of the tree had been turned on in the darkened room and he was sitting with Ruth in his arms.

At length Ruth broke the silence.

"Talk to me," she said. "You've been awfully quiet this evening."

"I've been disappointed," he admitted. After a while he went on: "I might as well tell you. Do you remember that half-wooded place over in the woods where you used to marry me? Right where we gathered the arbutus with the long stems?"

"As if I could forget!"

"Remember the balsam where I etched out a heart and our initials? Well, I vowed to bring that tree for our first Christmas together. I had a feeling that our love would always be true that tree which God grew for us—ever fresh, ever green. I wanted to surprise you this evening, dear. But—some unromantic soul took our tree away."

He thought he saw a startled look in Ruth's eyes as they searched his for a moment.

"And you went to all the trouble just to fetch that tree for me? I bet that's why you were late in getting home, you angel!" She kissed him full in the mouth. Then hesitatingly, she said:

"I'm only sorry I—didn't tell you beforehand that somebody stole the tree. Now, please don't ask me why. Let me explain. It's a secret I've been saving."

She left his lap and went to the stack of gifts. Selecting an oblong, neatly wrapped package, she returned to him.

"Do open it first of all, before we touch the others," she implored. "It contains the secret and surprise. Perhaps you'll understand why the tree was gone."

Guy's curiosity was not much satisfied when at last he held in his hands a neatly fashioned box resembling a miniature hope chest. The curved lid was covered with the balsam resin, and the rest of the structure comprised carefully inlaid, light-colored wood. The whole was shiny with varnish. Somewhat puzzled, Guy lifted the lid and peered inside expectantly. The box was empty.

"Nice looking affair," he commented by way of a hasty embarrasment. "What is it for, if you will pardon my ignorance?"

"Here's where the real surprise comes, Guy." Her eyes shone with radiant bliss. "This little hope chest—had Mr. Peterson make it special for us a few days ago. It is to be for the tiny darling that's coming."

Guy shot a quick interrogating glance at her.

"Are you—will we—" he gulped.

"Yes, Aren't you glad!"

"Your precious thing!" was all he could say.

Passionately he drew her closer to him, laid his cheek on her sunburn hair. His lingering eyes, moist with the emotion that surged within him, took in the little oddly made box. How strange that Ruth should make so much of the insignificant container. He could see myrtle leaves and a larger one, at that, for—what did they call it—the layette? But, he thought, probably Ruth had intended the box for baby's first shoes only.

Ah! What was that on the lid? A faintly discernible, weather-worn design of the bark which had escaped his notice.

He bent over, gave the lid a closer scrutiny in the dim light. Then, as recognition swept through his mind, he understood. The etching was a blurred outline of a heart and within it, intact and unaltered, the initials G. & R.

Wounded by Bandit, FERA Employee Dies

Shot Thursday when he failed to obey the command of a bandit, David A. Lord, young FERA worker who resided in Center Hill, died Monday night at Grady hospital.

Lord paid with his life when two armed bandits robbed the Rakestraw Filling station in Center Hill, of $65.

The young man was bystander when the bandits drove into the station and ordered every one to hold up his hands and not to move. Lord attempted to run and was shot through the abdomen by one of the robbers.

He was taken to Grady hospital where his condition remained critical until his death Monday night. Funeral arrangements are to be announced by the J. Austin Dillon company.

Mrs. Roosevelt Again Named Outstanding Woman of Year

BY MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER (Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 24.

For the second time in succession, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is at the head of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt's list of the 10 outstanding women of the year.

This is the age of combined effort," said Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance today. The others on Mrs. Catt's 1934 list are:

Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark.

The late Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, former chairman of the consumer's advisor board of the National Resources Commission.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of a precious husband,

George Mosley, who passed away one year ago today, December 23, 1933.

Now he is at rest in a better land.

The love in his heart holds sway.

Fond memories linger every day.

Remember him, keep his name.

MRS. ALICE MOSLEY.
